

VOLUNTEER CORNER

Meet Volunteer Al Miller

Al was looking for someplace where he could interact with people in a relaxed atmosphere. When he heard about the need for help in the lobby of the new Civic Center to direct people to their needed services he thought, “Yeah, I can do that!”

Volunteer Concierge Al Miller.

“I enjoy helping the folks that come into the Civic Center to meet with City employees, as well as those that pop in to see the building and enjoy the art in the lobby,” Al said. “I have met a lot of nice people in recent months!”

Al has volunteered in a number of different capacities since he retired 10 years ago. He sees his job as a concierge as a way to make visiting the Civic Center as smooth as possible by taking the mystery out of where to find things (including the restrooms) and to help lighten the day of those he meets. He views his volunteer efforts as beneficial to the City and its residents, but also to himself.

“Selfish as it may be, there is a sense of satisfaction reaching out to one’s neighbor to be of help,” Al said.
